Astromonk Dies Suddenly After 12 Hours Back

By GEORGE ZUCKER
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Astro- monk Bonny died suddenly at midnight Monday 12 hours after the monkey put down in the Pacific Ocean following 130 orbits around earth in a space capsule, the U.S. space agency reported.

"It was sudden," said Brad Evans, public information officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "He had been in fair condition just before."

The 14-pound monkey, ex- hausted and bored, was brought back to earth more than three weeks early and splashed down in his Biosatellite some 25 miles off Kauai, Ha- waii.

Observers described Ameri- ca's space monkey as limp but alive when flown by Air Force helicopter to Hawaii's Hickam Air Force base.

NASA officials said an autop- sy was ordered immediately in the biosatellite laboratory trailer where the monkey had been under intensive care since the touchdown.

"We had no idea that he was that close to death," added Evans. "He just suddenly fell off."

NASA officials scheduled a news conference this morning to discuss the unexpected climax of the aborted space mission.

Evans said it was still too early to call the mission a failure, saying "it depends on what data have already received."

"We had been hoping for a minimum 14-day mission for success," he said.

Before death, a team of 15 doctors, veterinarians and tech- nicians worked over the little primate in a portable medical van, and a doctor had reported "his heartbeat is 68 per minute and steady."

Bonny was blasted into space June 28 from Cape Kennedy on a planned 30-day mission, but was ordered back to earth after only 8 1/2 days when scientists monitoring his performance found him sluggish and no longer interested in performing his simple space chores.

Troops in the First Pullout Heading Home

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP) — The first U.S. troops to be pulled out of Vietnam by President Nixon winged homeward in nine jet transports today after a sendoff marked by military fanfare and the thanks of Saigon officials.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of American forces in Vietnam, told the 814 men in the first contingent of 25,000 U.S. troops being withdrawn: "You occupy a significant moment in history."

A gala welcome awaited the infantrymen, almost all veter- ans of combat, at this Air Force base, near Ft. Lewis and the city of Seattle.

Army chief of Staff Gen. Wil- liam C. Westmoreland, a former U.S. commander in Vietnam, flew in from Washington with decorations for five of the re- turning soldiers of the 3rd Bat- talion, 60th Infantry, 9th Infan- try Division.

On the program for the next three days were speeches by public figures, band music, a parade, a dinner, pretty girls and, in many cases, family re- for those who saw the troops off at Tan Son Nhut air- port Tuesday were South Viet- namese President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen

During the regular weekly luncheon of Hope Lions at Town and Country restaurant yester- day a movie on the Arkansas Highway Department's building program was shown.

Program Chairman was Hask- ell Jones who introduced John Tallant, local Hope District Engineer and John Gray, Little Rock, photographer who has made and edited all the progress made by the department.

Over five miles of film were taken at various locations but has been cut to a reasonable length.

U.S. Aid to 3 Schools Has Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, which last week relaxed deadlines for ending public school segrega- tion, has ended federal aid to three southern school districts and filed antisegregation suits both above and below the Ma- son-Dixon line.

In announcing the deadlines would be eased, the adminis- tration said last week it would ac- celerate court suits against segregation in schools and con- tinue to cut off government funds to districts still separating students on a racial basis.

Even with Monday's action, only eight suits have been filed in the first six months of Presi- dent Nixon's administration seeking desegregation. All told, 125 court actions came in the last year of President Johnson's term.

Losing federal money under the Monday announcement were the Flager County Fla., board of education, the Wayne County, Ga., board of education and the Orangeburg School District No. 4 (Edisto) in South Carolina.

In the suits, the Justice De- partment attacked a freedom- of-choice plan in Barnwell, S.C., and the method of placing fac- ulty members in Madison County, Ill.

The suit in Illinois was the first such action taken under the Nixon administration against a Northern state's school district. The suits sought to force the South Carolina district to take "prompt affirmative steps to eliminate racial identities of schools" regarding pupils, teachers, transportation and new construction.

The other suit Monday charged the Southern Illinois school district with appointing teachers on a racially separate basis.

Jury to Hear From Inmates

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A U.S. Grand Jury for the Eastern Dis- trict of Arkansas was to con- vene today in Little Rock to hear testimony on the treatment of state prison inmates.

Plead Innocent to Murder Charge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three youths pleaded innocent Monday in Pulaski County Circuit Court to first-degree murder charges in the shooting of Michael Pate, 22, of Little Rock.

The defendants are James T. Horton, 17; Jerry F. Kellar, 18, and Herbert A. Brian, 18, all of Little Rock.

They are charged with the June 28 shooting of Pate on a Little Rock street.

Scott to Be New Revenue Commissioner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The governor's office said Monday that Bob Scott, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's aide for prison af- fairs, would be appointed state revenue commissioner.

Scott is to succeed B. Bryan Larey, who has been nominated by President Nixon as U.S. at- torney for the Western District of Arkansas. He is to assume the position as soon as Larey's nomination is confirmed by the Senate.

Scott, 35, has been Rockefeller's adviser on prison affairs and extradition matters since the governor took office in Jan- uary 1967.

"I cannot begin to praise Bob Scott too highly for the excel- lent manner in which he has performed his duties," Rockefeller said. "He has been an out- standing member of my admin- istration and I am grateful for the job he has done for the peo- ple of Arkansas."

Scott, a native of Benton Coun- ty and a graduate of the Uni- versity of Arkansas Law School, ran successfully as an inde- pendent candidate for Rogers city attorney, then became a Republican.

He became the Republican state committeeman from Ben- ton County in 1961. He ran un- successfully for state representa- tive in 1962.

He has been involved in sev- eral controversies, especially with prison administrators, dur- ing his tenure as an adminis- tration aide.

Judge Dismisses Silly Suit Against 'Dixie'

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Gordon E. Young Monday dismissed as "silly" a suit seeking to pro- hibit the song "Dixie" from be- ing played at Jonesboro High School functions.

The suit by the Negro plain- tiffs contended that playing the song at school functions violated their constitutional rights be- cause "in a school context, it constitutes a badge of slavery."

"I think the complaint is silly and it will be dismissed on ac- count of silliness," Young said.

"I can't help but feel that we have more important matters to consider," the judge said.

"There are many songs that I don't like. I find no federal con- stitutional issues here."

The suit was filed after 30 Negro students were suspended for five days for walking out of a school pep rally while "Dixie" was being played. Their suspen- sions were later reduced to three days.

Negroes had protested the playing of the song before the incident. A faculty committee had recommended a trial period during which the song would not be played and the School Board, responding later to the suit, said that student morale and participation in pep rallies dropped without the song.

Neither the Negro plaintiffs nor their attorney, John Walker of Little Rock, appeared in court for the hearing. Young was criti- cal of Walker for failing to show up or contact the court.

The judge said he had heard nothing from Walker.

"Frankly, I regard his con- duct outrageous and bordering on contemptuous of court," Young said.

He said the hearing had in- convenience the court and cost the government money.

Bert Smith, attorney for the School Board, told the judge that he had agreed with Walker Monday morning that Smith would read the stipulations in the case. Smith said Walker told him that he didn't want to come to Jonesboro Monday and that the School Board attorney was authorized to read the facts into the record.

NO CLUES

to push rates back to pre-June 9 levels—or to extract promises that interest charges will go no higher in the future.

This prompted a blast from Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Cur- rency Committee, Kennedy's chief foe in Washington. The Texas Democrat has been call- ing for Kennedy's resignation for months and raised the cry again Monday.

"It is almost unbelievable," Patman said in a statement is- sued by his office, "that the sec- retary could answer no when a reporter asked him if he had discussed rolling back the rate. And it is even more incredulous when he can answer no to a re- porter's inquiry as to whether any future increases in the prime rate were discussed."

"The secretary's press brief- ing, in a time of economic crisis for the nation, will go down as one of the blandest and most ir- responsible statements by a public official in the history of the U.S. government."

Nixon also said it is essential to raise the ceiling on maximum benefits. He said it takes at least 50 per cent of a worker's wage to prevent a severe cut in his living standard when he is between jobs. At least two out of five claimants of unemployment insurance now fail to get that much, he added.

A maximum insurance level of two-thirds of an average wage, Nixon said, would result in benefits of 50 per cent in wages for at least 80 per cent of insured workers.

The President said expanded unemployment insurance cover- age also is needed since the ex- isting program creates a dispro- portionate hardship on minority workers, many of whom are nonwhite.

Most state programs now pro- vide about 26 weeks of benefits, but Nixon said the number of persons using these benefits would grow rapidly should the economy falter.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

MOST POPULAR SUBJECTS FOR EARLY SUMMER

Dear Helen: Outside of answers to that nutty "PATRIOT" and the selfish "NOT A NURSE-MAID", what letters to your youth column brought the most response during early summer? — ANOTHER CURIOUS TEEN

Dear Helen: The supernatural still ranks way up there, with many comments on ouija boards, white and black magic, "the age of Aquarius," etc. Sex has taken a back seat (no pun intended) to seances these days. . . Which is quiet understandable, considering that witchery is still mystery whereas sex has been so exploited it's nothing but dull.

THE all important jumpsuit.

It turns up in brilliant prints, delicate peasant prints and sophisticated florals.

Stan Herman for Mr. Mort has taken an engineered print from Soptra, a gay wildflower print in hues of grape, gold, hot pink and built an entire group of gypsy-type costumes around it.

Leo Narducci goes all out with exotic prints out into easy little dresses that can swing anywhere. The important tunic dress over pants turns up in a soft brown on white print on Touch, designed by Selig Sidney for The Sidney's.

Alan Phillips of Jeremy does an easy dress in a sophisticated red on white swirling paisley print. A plaid and domino-dot print worked on the bias turns a casual little dress into something very special.

June Frances at Junior Accent takes an exotic jungle animal print in brilliant green and brown and yellow and comes up with bikinis that go under pants and a matching tunic top. A classic, very short shirtdress with covered buttons running up the high neck hides another bikini.

At Rose Marie Reid a gypsy group is colorful in green and yellow floral. It's comprised of bikinis that hide under play dresses with peasant details such as gathered, off-the-shoulder necklines, flounces and tiers.

All told, the new Touch has added easy-care glamor to the summer fashion scene and should be a big favorite for fall as well.

Producers Fool Typecast by Networks

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's a curious thing," said Ed Hartmann, "Networks seem to type producers and companies as much as actors."

"They expect action melodrama from Bruce Geller, thought-provoking shows from Paul Monash and broad comedy from Paul Henning."

Geller produces "Mission: Impossible" and "Mannix," Monash did "Peyton Place" and "Judd for the Defense" and Henning "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Petticoat Junction" and "Green Acres."

"And," Hartmann added, "from us they expect warm, sentimental shows."

Those warm and sentimental shows are the warmest and most sentimental on television — "Family Affair," "My Three Sons" and new for next season on CBS, "To Rome With Love." The latter stars John Forsythe as a widowed college professor who takes his three daughters to Rome to live.

Hartmann, who is producer of all three for Don Feddersen Productions, said, "There is a certain pattern that doesn't come from the producers themselves. You get a reputation for success with a certain type of show and you're typecast."

Do the networks say, for instance, give us another "Family Affair"?

"Not exactly. They may see us and say they'd love to see another show from us," he said. "They don't say, do this or do that, but they do seem to be more comfortable with a similar show from a producer."

Hartmann, a balding man with a sweeping gray mustache, said that people identified with certain kinds of shows often had different backgrounds in other efforts. Hartmann has written 75 movies and produced most of them, including several for Bob Hope.

He is one man who is swimming counter to the current that takes a writer and producer from television to the movies. "I like the action of television," said Hartmann in his office at CBS Studio Center in the San Fernando Valley, where the shows are being filmed.

"I don't like sitting around in an office writing something that won't show up for another year and when it does you don't recognize it."

Being a producer in television usually means turning out a few scripts and rewriting all the rest.

"You will find most producers are writers," he said. "A producer may be called over to a set to write a script in 10 seconds. You don't have time to give it to a writer and have him return it in three days. You've got to do it right on the set and shoot it."

Hartmann said he is not anxious to get back to being just a writer. "Working in a studio with people is so much more exciting than sitting in an office and writing scripts," he added.

Safeguard Against Acne

Medical writers seem to agree that soap and water are among the best weapons against acne. To prevent blemishes, tiny skin glands should be allowed to become unplugged. How to do it? Washing. But this must be done properly. Soap and water, and the use of a soft brush (NOT a harsh one which will irritate the skin), to be followed by copious rinsing with fresh running water.

Protect Nails

Before tackling any "dirty" jobs, dig your fingernails into a bar of soap—the soap will act as protection against troublesome dirt that leaves ugly stains and traces underneath fingernails.

Suddenly Senators Are Red Hot

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Ted Williams took over as manager of the Washington Senators, he said he wouldn't demand perfection from his players—just a lot of hustle and an all-out attitude.

Apparently, Casey Cox got the message a little mixed up. The 6-foot-5 right-hander came with a brilliant relief role Monday night as the red-hot Senators hammered Cleveland 7-2 for their 10th victory in 13 games and 13th in their last 19.

Cox, unsuccessful in three separate trials with the Senators before this season, came in with the bases loaded and one out in the third and promptly retired the last 20 men in order.

Towering Frank Howard, meanwhile, backed him with a pair of homers—one a tape-measure job that landed in the upper center field deck of Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, an estimated 485 feet from the plate.

Elsewhere in the American League, Chicago blanked sagging Oakland 2-0 on Gary Peters' two hitler, Minnesota edged Kansas City 6-5, Boston whipped Detroit 7-2 and California stopped Seattle 5-1. New York and Baltimore were not scheduled.

In the National League, Houston thumped San Francisco 8-2, Atlanta topped Los Angeles 5-2, and Cincinnati defeated San Diego 5-3. Rain washed out the Montreal at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at Philadelphia games. New York and Chicago were idle.

Cox, who turned 28 last week, had been bouncing back and forth between the minors and the Senators since 1966 before this season. During that span, he managed to get into 124 games—all in relief—in the majors, but had only a mediocre 11-10 record and a 3.25 ERA.

But this year, the Long Beach, Calif., product is one of the reasons the Senators are three games past .500 with a 45-42 record—their highest showing this late in the season in nearly a decade.

Monday night's victory was Cox' sixth in seven decisions, and the 6-2-3 innings of blank work lowered his ERA to a sparkling 1.88.

Cox, who stopped the Indians last week in his only route-gone start in the majors, has yielded 18 earned runs in 86 innings, appearing in 32 games.

He came in after the Indians loaded the bases with one out against starter Jim Schellenback in the third. Cox got Tony Horton to hit into a force at the plate before Ed Brinkman made a great play on Ken Harrelson's grounder in the hole to force Horton at second.

The only blot on Cox' relief role came in the eighth when pinch-hitter Lou Klimchok reached first after Del Unser dropped his short fly to center. But Klimchok, trying for an extra base on the play, was thrown out at second by Unser.

Howard smashed a two-run homer in the third against the scoreboard in right, then reached deep center with a bases-empty shot in the seventh, his 32nd of the season.

Mike Epstein also had a two-run homer for the Senators, his 20th, marking the seventh time this season that both Howard and Epstein have homered in the same game.

Harrelson's second inning homer, his 12th, staked the Indians to an early 2-0 lead before Cox went to work.

Stone Leaves Dodgers Very Dazed

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first Stone has been cast in the siege of Los Angeles, leaving the dazed Dodgers rocking on their heels.

Southpaw George Stone pitched five perfect innings and finished with a three-hitter Monday night as Atlanta's National League West Division leaders whipped the second-place Dodgers 5-2 in the opener of a four-game series.

"He pitched tonight like you have to be a winner," said Dodgers manager Walter Alston, whose injury-riddled club has lost five of its last six starts to fall 1½ games off the Braves' pace.

Cincinnati rallied for three runs in the seventh inning, the last two on Tony Perez' triple, and topped San Diego 5-3 in the only other NL night game, moving past San Francisco into third place in the West.

The Giants bowed to Houston 8-2 in a day game as Don Wilson scattered six hits and struck out 14, slipping one-half game behind Cincinnati and five back of the Braves.

The St. Louis-Philadelphia and Montreal-Pittsburgh games were rained out.

In the American League, Boston whipped Detroit 7-2; Washington downed Cleveland 7-2; Chicago trimmed Oakland 2-0; Minnesota nipped Kansas City 6-5 and California took Seattle 5-1.

Stone, a former reliever who has nailed a key spot in Atlanta's starting rotation, breezed to his ninth victory against two losses, retiring 23 of the first 24 batters he faced while the Braves surged to a 5-0 lead.

Jim Lefebvre, who ruined Stone's no-hit bid with a leadoff single in the sixth, poled his first homer of the year with two out in the eighth. Bill Russell homered with two out in the ninth for the third Los Angeles hit.

"I committed the cardinal sin of pitchers," Stone said. "I had a big lead and I relaxed. They (Lefebvre and Russell) are highly fastball hitters and that's exactly what I gave them."

By the time the Dodgers finally connected, the Braves were out of reach. They nicked loser Alan Foster for a second inning run, took a 3-0 lead on Hank Aaron's 22nd homer in the third and added two more runs in the fifth on Felix Millan's base-loaded single.

The Reds snapped a 2-2 tie at San Diego after Chico Ruiz opened the seventh with a bunt single. He took second on a sacrifice and, after an intentional walk to Pete Rose, scored the go-ahead run on Bob Tolan's single. Perez tripled two more runs across, offsetting a ninth inning San Diego marker.

Rose homered for the Reds and rookie Van Kelly connected for the Padres.

Curt Blefary's two-run fifth inning homer sent Houston ahead of San Francisco 2-1 and the Astros pulled away with a four-run burst in the seventh. Jim Wynn cracked his 18th homer in the ninth for their last two runs.

hitting performance by Jim Rooker, who suffered his sixth straight loss without a victory. Rooker, a former minor league outfielder, slammed a 450-solo homer in the third—his first major league hit—then cracked a two-run homer in the fifth.

Ray Culp scattered six hits and George Scott had a single and two triples and scored Boston's first three runs in the victory over Detroit.

The crowd of 26,020 at Fenway Park boosted the Red Sox' season total to 1,008,313 for 41 dates—the first major league team to reach the million plateau.

Barber Going After the British Open

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Two top American professionals sized up the 1969 British Open Golf championship today as a mighty important prize which will go to the man who gets away with blind shots.

"There are a lot of blind shots on this course," said Miller Barber on this course, "I don't like them but you must play the course you are on."

Barber, ex-Air Force officer who played golf with Dwight D. Eisenhower, wears glasses which haven't failed him in winning $76,000 this year on the American circuit, but he added: "They don't help me when I want to see where my shot should be going and I don't see it."

Gardner Dickinson, 133-pound nunch of whipcord from Palm Beach, Fla., echoed the thought and he quoted Ben Hogan with whom he often has been compared.

"Ben said once, 'just give me the assignment, whatever the course, and I'll try to meet it, but I've got to be able to see it.'"

A couple of bulldozers on perhaps three or four important holes of Lytham's 6,848-yard, par 71 seaside links would eliminate the "blind" shots, Barber said. Dickinson added: "We could do that and still make this a really tough course."

Barber and Dickinson are rated in the medium bracket in the betting for the 109-year old crown, while Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Bill Casper share 6-1 favorite positions.

But either could win. So could Lee Trevino of Dallas, Tex., the 1968 U.S. Open champion who said: "The champion here is the man who hits from the tee and puts well."

So could the current American Open champ, Orville Moody, who now lives in Texas after 14 years as an Army sergeant.

Said Moody: "This is my sort of a course. I've been playing under par here in practice even though I've had hay fever. I find the greens easy to read because they are not undulating. I really fear Player, Casper and Trevino but I think I have a good chance."

The 13 Americans in the field of 130 clearly dominated the guesswork involved in picking the winner of the 72-hole, four-day joust which opens Wednesday morning.

Player, of South Africa, is the defending champion after his triumph at Carnoustie last year.

Mets Are Now Playing for Keeps

NEW YORK (AP) — After seven years of playing it for laughs only, the New York Mets have suddenly switched to playing serious baseball—so serious that they begin the first crucial series in their history against the Chicago Cubs today.

Some 130,000 serious-minded serious-minded hysterical Met fans are expected to turn out for the three-game series, hoping to see the second place Mets close the five-game gap that separates them from the first place Cubs in the National League's Eastern Division.

"These kids are hungry to win it," said veteran third baseman Ed Charles, and he wasn't just talking about the series. He had the pennant in mind.

"The pressure will be on the Cubs. This club is as loose as can be. Chicago will be feeling the heat. We'll just be playing our natural game."

Their natural game has put them on a five-game winning streak while the Cubs bring in a three-game losing string.

"They've escaped a bad slump so far," said Manager Gil Hodges of the Mets. "Maybe losing three straight is the first indication. If you can play good ball, you can beat them."

Hodges who saved his three best pitchers for this series, named left-hander Jerry Koosman, 5-5, to start today's game with that in mind. He will be opposed by Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins, 11-5.

And it doesn't end at Shea Stadium. The teams move to Chicago next week for another three-game set of serious baseball.

All Williams Asks Is All Out Effort

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams, the perfectionist, doesn't demand perfection from his ball players—only all-out effort—and that appears to be the secret of the phenomenal surge of the Washington Senators.

"All I ask of a man is that he do his best," said the former Boston Red Sox slugger, who is already being booed here for Manager of the Year honors.

"If a guy is just a good player, with limited talent but always in there trying, I don't criticize or push him. But the man with great potential who is satisfied with being just an average player—I build a fire under him."

The traditionally lagging Senators returned to home Monday night and kept up the pace set in a most successful road trip by defeating Cleveland 7-2.

The victory pushed them three games past .500 with a 45-42 mark, the first time a Washington team had been so high so late in the season since 1960. The Senators have won 10 of their last 13 games, 13 of the last 19.

"These are the same faces we've had but different ball players," said one of Williams' idolatrous fans. "You have to give Williams all the credit."

The transition has been astounding. Big Frank Howard has quit swinging from the floor with his eyes closed. He is batting close to .310 with 32 home runs. Mike Epstein has 20 homers. Men such as Ed Brinkman, Del Unser and Hank Allen all are hitting 20 and 30 points better than a year ago.

Williams, still a handsome six-footer-plus with a shock of curly hair and piercing blue eyes, relaxed in his cubby-hole of an office in the stadium catcombs and spoke frankly of his theories and qualms as a rookie manager.

"You're darned tooting I was a bit uneasy about taking over this job. I still am. The reason is only half over. But I'll tell you this. This may not be the

Confidence Vote Like a Kiss of Death

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A vote of confidence for a manager, says Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe Brown, is "like the kiss of death."

Brown says he doesn't believe in the practice, but he comes within a whisker of giving one to his manager—Larry Shepard.

"I sure wouldn't say that Larry is on the hot seat," said Brown. "He is one of the finest men in the world. I have confidence in his ability."

But Brown, studying the Pirates' record after rain washed out Monday night's game against Montreal, can't be happy with what he sees.

The Pirates are in fourth place in the National League's East Division, just one game ahead of Philadelphia and 13 games behind front-running Chicago.

They've lost 12 of their last 14 games and are saddled with a seven-game losing streak. They are five games under .500.

The natural question: What is Shepard's status?

"I assume," Brown answers, "you mean do I plan to make a change. If I planned any change, I wouldn't tell anybody in advance."

"I never have nor will I ever give any indication in advance that I'm dissatisfied with the manager."

But Brown says the fact that Shepard is "still here" proves "I'm 100 per cent behind him."

The question of Shepard's status doesn't concern him, says Brown.

"It's the necessity that the question has to arise because of the way we are playing that bothers me," he says.

World Hockey Meet Lost to Canada

CRANS-SUR-SIERRE, Switzerland (AP) — Canada lost its bid for open world hockey competition Monday by a 30-20 vote of delegates attending the International Ice Hockey Federation annual meeting.

However, Douglas Fisher of Ottawa, Canada, said there is good reason to believe the conference will make some concessions, such as allowing Canada six or nine professional players for the 1970 world tournament.

"But we are sticking to the principle that open competition is the only fair treatment," Fisher said. "While we may accept the anticipated compromise, we will return year after year to the principle."

Shepard, halfway through a one-year contract, has never had his club operating at 100 per cent efficiency this year.

Robert Clemente missed part of the season because of injuries and now three regulars are sidelined with injuries.

Bill Mazeroski has a pulled hamstring. Gene Alley has a sprained left knee, and Al Oliver pulled a thigh muscle. Willie Stargell also has been playing with an injured left knee.

But the plus side, Pittsburgh has five regulars hitting over

Sex No.2-6 in Marriage, It Says Here

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sex is No. 2 in a man's priorities for selecting a mate but No. 6 on the woman's list and that's the reason 75 per cent of American marriages are a bust, according to an eminent psychologist.

"When a man gazes into a woman's eyes with what they think is love and devotion they are not seeing the same thing," Dr. Clifford Rose Adams, professor emeritus of Penn State University, added in a report based on 30 years of research.

"Olds on any marriage being a success are shorter than those of hitting the jackpot on a pin-ball machine in Las Vegas."

Adams, 66, a consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica and numerous scientific publications, presented his latest findings to the Monthly Research Institute here after studying 6,000 couples.

"Since the sex revolution following World War II sexual satisfaction has been much more important to the male than to the female," the professor said. "Companionship is the first subconscious factor influencing the male in mate selection. The, in order, come sex, love-affection-sentiment in a single category, home and family, a helpmate (one giving encouragement) and, lastly, security."

"For the woman the first things he seeks are love, affection and sentiment. She has to feel loved and wanted. The second is security, then companionship, home and family, community acceptance and, sixth, sex."

"So you see man and woman do not see eye-to-eye. How can marriages, under these circumstances, last?"

Adams said government statistics showing that 28 per cent of all marriages end in divorce are misleading.

"If you take in annulments and desertions, which are not included, the figure would be nearer 40 per cent. Add to this what we call the morbidity marriage where a man and woman may continue living with each other just for appearances or convenience while actually hating each other and you find that only about 25 per cent of marriages are really happy."

"The other 75 per cent are a bust."

The doctor, whose research included interviews with college undergraduates as far back as 1939, said the biggest divorce year is the third year after marriage. Half of all divorces are obtained within seven years.

He said too many marriages are founded on sexual compatibility—or "body heat," as he put it—and this is disastrous.

"A good date does not necessarily make a good mate," the professor added. "Those who marry because of a sexual detachment don't see the rest of the pie. These marriages usually in divorce."

Landing Area to Be Sea of Tranquillity

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We'll have a view of the landing area from about 8,000 feet, two to three minutes before landing... we'll be continuously observing it for its suitability, namely a smooth touchdown point and absence of large craters."

That's how Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong describes the final moments of the daring descent to the moon he and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. are to make July 20, four days after Apollo 11 is launched.

The planned landing area is a three-by-seven-mile oval in the Sea of Tranquillity.

In practice this week, the two moon-bound men are concentrating on the critical and dangerous landing and takeoff in a lunar module (LM) trainer, while fellow astronaut Michael Collins works in the command ship simulator. They also planned today to rehearse the launching from Cape Kennedy.

"As we come down lower and lower," Armstrong said in an interview last week, "we'll be able to evaluate the landing site better. If required, we will alter that landing point either farther ahead or off to the left or right, or perhaps a little short of where the machine is being directed automatically."

"Then, as we come through the 500 foot level or thereabouts, we'll probably take control of the attitude manually and fly it to the precise touchdown point," the Apollo 11 commander said.

"As we reach the hover point," he continued, "we'll probably have a minute and a half or so of fuel which will permit us to go a relatively good distance, perhaps 1,000 feet if we choose. I wouldn't anticipate that we would do that. I would hope that we would generally get into the right area much earlier by changing the trajectory at a higher altitude."

"The fuel penalty for changing the landing point is much less at higher altitude," he explained. "It becomes quite significant down close to the surface."

When Armstrong and Aldrin lift off, they will rendezvous with Collins, who will orbit the moon while his companions explore below.

Israel Claims 18 Arabs Die in Fighting

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops killed 18 Arab infiltrators in a series of gun battles on two fronts Monday night, the army announced today. It denied Egyptian claims that the Israelis suffered "heavy casualties."

Soldiers at the Suez Canal drove off an Egyptian commando raid north of Timsa Lake, opposite Ismailia, killing nine Arabs, an Israeli spokesman said. He added that nine Arab guerrillas fell in two other clashes in the Jordan Valley.

The Israelis claimed the canal battle resulted in one of the single highest Egyptian death tolls there since the June 1967 war. The army said the Egyptian commandos moved under cover of an artillery barrage against the Israeli camp north of Timsa Lake but were beaten back.

Cairo Radio said the Egyptians hit in company strength, about 120 men, "inflicting heavy casualties on the Israelis."

The broadcast acknowledged five Arab casualties, but did not specify if they were dead or wounded.

Earlier in the day both sides claimed kills in air battles. The Israelis said their jets downed two Egyptian MIGs over the Sinai Desert, while Cairo claimed one Israeli plane "plunged into the sea" and "the enemy could not rescue its pilot."

As the pace of fighting increased, a rift threatened to develop in Israel's ruling Labor party. Supporters of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan met to consider whether the Rafi group of the party should break away and form a new party.

Prime Minister Golda Meir walked out of the meeting after saying such a split would mean "disaster for the nation" at a time when Israel is "again faced by difficult security problems."

Water Skiing Made Easy

By WILLIAM D. CLIFFORD
Executive Manager, American Water Ski Association
A water take-off for beginning water skiers is as simple as the few basic rules they must follow: 1. Don a safety belt or jacket regardless of swimming ability. 2. Hold skis in a parallel position, tips extended above the surface, then sit back on skis with knees bent to chest. Grasp the handle firmly with both hands, keeping arms outside the knees. 3. Signal "In gear" to the boat driver for him to take up slack in the towline. Then, once the line is taut, shout "Hit it" for the driver to accelerate. 4. Let the towboat do all the work. As your skis come up on plane, rise up by straightening legs and back. Keep arms straight and knees slightly bent. You're on your way!

"Inflation," Wilson said. "I think that big businesses, like oil, steel and others, have a lot to do with it and maybe they should solve the problem. I doubt that they will though, if doing something about inflation means lower profits for their fat incomes."

A San Francisco secretary-bookkeeper said, "Taxes have eaten up a pay increase I just got. But I'm better off than two or three years ago."

A Montgomery, Ala., maintenance worker, Will Evans, 54, whose income is less than $7,500, said, "Things don't seem much different now than they ever were. When you don't make much money sometimes you don't notice things."

Ronald Ferrari, 25, a utility company crewman in San Francisco, said, "I don't seem to have as much money as I used to, but I don't know what can be done." Margaret Price, 24, a writer, of New Haven, Conn., said, "Inflation keeps me in a poverty bracket."

G. Roland Kasting, 53, a farmer, of Seymour, Ind., said, "The cost of everything I buy has gone up — seed corn, fertilizer, machinery, services. The government is the biggest offender in inflation, spending all the money it is spending."

Thomas McMahon, 46, owner of a marine engine repair service in East Haven, Conn., said, "The high interest rate on money is stopping business. Inflation starts with the unions. The workmen are responsible for making the products."

"I suggest that we stop the war and get out of Vietnam to solve the tax problems," proposed Jack Aubrey, 44, who is part owner of a bookstore in Grand Rapids, Mich.

E. J. "Bud" Hohman, a gasoline station proprietor in Miami, said, "The government should freeze wages and prices. I always felt the government should be more strict with trade unions. If it had, the inflation wouldn't have come about."

Mrs. O. S. Simpkins, 60, wife of a doctor in Shreveport, La., said, "Credit is so easy to get now. People overload themselves with bills that otherwise they would not attempt to incur. I mean, everybody has a color television almost, and can't pay for it."

Fined $110 for Spitting on Sidewalk

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Municipal Court Judge O. H. Hargraves Monday fined a leader of a Negro boycott against Forrest City merchants $110 for spitting on the sidewalk and sent him to jail on a contempt of court citation.

Hargraves fined Eddie Tate $50 and gave him a 10-day jail sentence on the contempt charge, resulting when Tate allegedly made a face at the judge in a court appearance June 30.

Tate is a member of the Invaders of Memphis, a black militant organization that is helping lead the boycott of merchants. Negroes have registered a number of protests, including lack of job opportunities for Negroes and judicial injustice for them.

The Merchants Committee of the Forrest City Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously Monday to accept recommendations of the city's biracial committee in an effort to end the dispute.

The merchants said they wouldn't specify a race preference for job applicants and would give equal consideration to all applicants. They also indicated that several positions would be open soon and even more in 30, 60 and 90 days.

The biracial committee also recommended that picketing cease for 15 days, but a Negro spokesman said picketing would continue until meaningful steps were taken.

Tate was one of eight Negroes who appeared in Municipal Court on charges growing out of picketing.

George Pettigrew and Bobby Bryant were found guilty of blocking a sidewalk and were fined $26.50 each. Janet Watson was fined $27.50 for breach of peace for allegedly playing a transistor radio too loud while picketing.

Hargraves dismissed charges of blocking the sidewalk against Mrs. Odessa Bradley and Mrs. Mariva Brown. Two youngsters charged with blocking the sidewalk were bound over to Juvenile Court.

Tate was charged with disorderly conduct for allegedly spitting on the sidewalk in front of Sheriff Clarence Montgomery, vagrancy and contempt of court. Hargraves dismissed the vagrancy charge.

Although Hargraves said he didn't see Tate make a face at him, Montgomery testified that as Tate was leaving the courtroom he "walked with his head bent back, snorted, laughed, and did a jump or a bunny hop with a very arrogant attitude" and the crowd in the courtroom laughed and snickered.

Acting Deputy Prosecutor Fletcher Long Jr. testified that Tate "snorted backward toward the judge."

Canadians Keep Eye on Soviet Ships

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Canadian surveillance of three Soviet destroyers sailing 200 miles off Nova Scotia ended late Monday, an armed forces spokesman announced.

He said they had moved out of the area of Canadian responsibility. Pentagon spokesmen in Washington said they didn't know whether the United States would take over surveillance of the southbound destroyers.

The Soviet vessels are believed headed for Cuba. The official Soviet news agency Tass announced Monday a seven-ship naval squadron will visit Cuba July 20-27 "to help further strengthen friendly relations between the Soviet and Cuban peoples."

Western observers believe this is intended as a slap at Washington to retaliate against President Nixon's planned visit to Communist Romania in August.

If the Soviet destroyers maintain their southbound course, it would put them off the southeast U.S. coast during the July 16 Apollo 11 moon shot.

Miniskirts and Varicose Veins

LONDON (AP) — Should the British government do something about miniskirt wearers who have varicose veins?

A conservative, Neil Marten of Oxfordshire, member of Parliament, told the House of Commons Monday the elastic stockings provided free by the government health service for women with varicose veins were too short for miniskirts. The health service, he said, should provide elastic tights instead.

Presidential Pressure for ABM Is Low

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is not applying any noticeable pressure to win Senate approval of the Safeguard missile defense system, key Democrats and Republicans agree.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, more hopeful now of defeating Safeguard than in the past, said he has not found evidence of the kind of presidential arm-twisting he previously felt might give Nixon narrow victory on the issue.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who has criticized some Nixon moves, said in a separate interview he believes "there has been some White House pressure but it has slackened off."

The Senate takes up today a $20 billion military authorization bill which contains $759 million in antiballistic missile—ABM—research, development and procurement funds.

Concerning Nixon's role in promoting his ABM program, Mansfield said:

"I doubt that the President is putting on any pressure himself. He has stated his case for ABM and he seems to be willing to stand on it."

"And he does have a case. This is not a one-sided question. It is a matter of grave consequences and should be debated fully."

Javits said those around the President have used a "soft sell" approach, trying to persuade ABM opponents that Nixon will remember them with future political goodies if they support him now.

"It's certainly a contrast to the Johnson administration's approach," Javits said. "When they wanted anything done, they swarmed Capitol Hill and the President himself used the lapel-gripping approach."

"I think the Nixon administration's approach is more conventional. Its members try to persuade you but they don't threaten or make any specific promises."

What may have been an effort to convert Republican opponents of Safeguard came eight days ago when Nixon invited five GOP senators—all ABM foes—to the White House.

But the senators said Nixon didn't discuss the issue of Safeguard until they brought it up, and the meeting was described in some quarters as a "nonsell" for ABM by the President.

None of the five Republicans indicated any change of mind as a result of the meeting.

Mansfield said he would not be surprised if Nixon takes a more active part in the controversy as a vote nears later this month and he indicated he felt that might be too late.

"I think opinion has been cemented on both sides," he said. "There is not much chance of any compromise. For the first time I am beginning to feel that we can win in a showdown."

The Democratic leader said he would not go along with a proposal by Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H.

THE FAMILY LAWYER
Beamed by Baggage
Wheeling around a corner, the bus driver cut so sharply that a suitcase fell out of the overhead rack. It landed squarely on the head of an unsuspecting woman passenger, inflicting painful injuries.

In due course, she sued the bus company for damages. At the trial, the company protested that it should not be held responsible for such an unlikely accident.

But the court felt otherwise and ordered the company to pay the woman's claim. The judge said it was part of a driver's job to handle his bus with full regard for the dangers of falling luggage.

As it does on all common carriers, the law imposes substantial responsibility on a bus company for the safety of the traveling public. This responsibility extends not only to the way the driver handles the bus but also to the way luggage is placed—either on the rack overhead or in the seats and aisles.

Consider this case: A passenger set his suitcase on the floor, where it protruded more than two feet into the aisle. Another passenger, coming through, stumbled over the suitcase and suffered a broken leg.

Here, too, a damage suit against the bus company was successful. The victim won his case on the ground that the suitcase had been in that obstructive position long enough for the bus driver—if he had been reasonably alert—to have noticed it and taken action.

Nevertheless, while the law demands due care of the driver, it does not expect the impossible. In another case, the driver did check the position of all luggage—above and below—before starting out. Furthermore, he drove his bus with proper care.

Yet, unbeknownst to him, a satchel on the overhead rack contained a kitten. During the ride the kitten moved, shifting the center of gravity and bringing the satchel crashing down upon a passenger's shoulder.

Under these circumstances, a court could find no basis for holding the bus company liable. The judge said he saw no way by which the driver, no matter how conscientious, could have foreseen and forestalled an accident like this.

Most safety plays are confined to one suit. When other suits are involved, you have a combination play and must consider the entire hand.

South wins the first heart with the ace. There is a safety play when you consider only the trump suit. It is to go over to dummy and lead the jack for a finesse. This play won't do him any good if West holds the guarded king but it will give him all the tricks in the suit any time East holds the king. The normal finesse of the queen won't pick up king-10-three in the East hand.

This is a real unsafety play with this hand. South is sure of his contract if he loses just one trump trick. If he makes this specialized play and dummy's jack loses to a singleton king in the West hand, West will be able to play the queen and another heart and East will overruff dummy with the 10-spot.

Therefore, the simple finesse in trumps is preferable to the specialized play this time but even it is an unsafety play.

The correct play is for South to give up any thought of a trump finesse and just play his ace of trumps. He isn't giving up much here. The odds are that West held the king of spades for his vulnerable overcall. In any event, South wants to make four spades and he can afford the loss of one trump trick.

This ace of trumps turns out to be a real combination safety play. It guards against the exact East-West holdings. If South takes the spade finesse, West will be in with the king.

He will cash one heart and then, if he is really alert, he will shift to his singleton diamond. East will go up with the ace and give his partner a ruff.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Chronic Ringworm Often Hard to Cure

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What would cause itching blisters on the bottom of my feet? What is the best treatment?

A—The most likely cause is some form of ringworm or athlete's foot. There are several effective remedies, including undecylenic acid, tolnaftate, triacetin and Whitfield ointment (preferably half-strength).

Q—I have had a ringworm infection for many years. It is fairly well-controlled. Is there any permanent cure?

A—Chronic ringworm is often hard to cure. If it is very troublesome, griseofulvin taken by mouth daily for several months gives the best chance for a cure. This drug should be taken only under medical supervision.

Q—My son came home from World War II with what the Veterans Hospital staff calls onychomycosis or jungle fungus. It has never cleared up. What do you advise?

A—This is ringworm of the nails and is notoriously hard to cure. Sporostatin locally or griseofulvin by mouth may be helpful. Both are prescription drugs.

Q—Are there any bad side effects from prolonged use of Grisactin? It helped the fungus infection of my nails but my doctor made me stop taking it. Why?

A—This drug is a brand of griseofulvin. In some persons, prolonged use causes hives, nausea, diarrhea, headache, dizziness, fatigue and insomnia. If your doctor advised discontinuing it, he must have found evidence of these or other harmful side effects.

Q—In 1936 I had a severe case of athlete's foot. After using strong ointments for a year with no success, a doctor gave me two X-ray treatments and in two weeks I was cured. Is this treatment still used?

A—Although X-ray treatment will clear up a ringworm infection promptly, it is no guarantee against a recurrence. That is the chief reason it is not more widely used.

Q—What is a yeast infection? Can it be cured?

A—There are many yeast or fungus infections. Some, such as ringworm, affect the skin and some the lungs, intestines and other organs. Before any treatment can be prescribed the type of infection must be identified.

Adviser Says Business Keeps Inflation Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business spending is a principal factor in the slow progress in checking inflation says Dr. Arthur Burns, President Nixon's chief economic adviser.

In a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report magazine, Burns said:

"We've made some progress but I'm a little disappointed we haven't made more. I had expected more recognition on the part of the business community of the need to curb inflation and of the government's determination to bring about this result."

"What concerns one particularly is the continued willingness of businessmen to expand capital-expenditure programs in the face of anti-inflation policy the government is pursuing."

Disturbance Directorate. This weekend the message was: "No major or minor civil disturbances have been reported in the past 24 hours. No requests for military assistance have been received."

TIEDE

By TOM TIEDE

NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Like almost everybody else, Lady Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton has grown weary of picking up her newspaper, watching her television, listening to her radio—and being bombarded with “bad news.”

Unlike almost everybody else, Lady Douglas-Hamilton is trying to do something about it. She is trying to resurrect “good news.”

Her ambition, in this age of rape, riot, rage and revolution seems a decidedly formidable one. But Lady Douglas-Hamilton, a Boston-born widow of a Scottish nobleman, thinks there is a preponderance of excellence in the country, always has been, and once it's rediscovered and promulgated, good news will rise again.

Lady Douglas-Hamilton directs an organization called “The Center of American Living,” which, among other things, periodically polls and attempts to understand the prevailing national sentiment on various social issues.

As a result of these polls, Lady Douglas-Hamilton says, she has become “convinced that most people are tired of the constant news reports of negativism. They are tired of reading, seeing and hearing, almost exclusively, about crime, vice, war, destruction and irrationality.”

Most people, she reasons, simply have a nostalgia for good.

“But we don't seem to see the good any more,” she adds. “It always seems as if the achievements of our nation—the reasonable thoughts, the challenges met, the goals reached—are always buried in the back pages.”

The solution to this, as Lady Douglas-Hamilton sees it, is not to toss out the bad news. She says she has worked in the communications field herself and has an aversion to censorship. Rather, she feels: “We must find ways to give ‘equal time’ to the good news that is happening.”

Lady Douglas-Hamilton has in mind the location, assemblage and distribution of this kind of information by both electronic and mechanical journalism.

Her idea is to match bad stories with good, violence with virtue, war with wit—thereby enabling people to get fuller perspectives on events.

She hopes, and expects, that her Center for American Living will thus become the Center for Good News. She says the Center has 168 affiliated clubs throughout the nation (service groups, sewing circles, large and small) which can be used as grass roots news gathering sources.

Even now, Lady Douglas-Hamilton says, the affiliated clubs, at her request, are sending in “heart-warming and very important news stories.”

Some examples:

—Berea College in Kentucky has gone through another school year without student disorder. All students at Berea are kept busy earning educations. The school provides jobs in lieu of tuition; Whenever students aren't studying, they're working (as janitors, clerks, gardeners). As one sophomore puts it: “We're too pooped to protest anything.”

—A married couple near Detroit have put “good music and good fun” back into area nightlife. Tired of “sadistic television, smutty movies, discotheques and go-go dives,” the couple set up old-fashioned recreation in a local barn. Banjo music is played, square dances are held, soft drinks are served—and the place is packed every evening.

—A newborn baby in Spokane, Wash., not long ago, was discovered to be allergic to all food except human milk. Its mother, however, was incapable of providing enough. Attending physicians, fearing for the infant's life, sent out a national plea. Within hours, women from across the nation sent in their unique, life-saving donations.

These illustrations, says Lady Douglas-Hamilton, are proof that positive news can be every bit as interesting and informative as negative

So she proposes that the mass communications media, in effect, get with it. She says “inspiring news happens at least as often as uninspiring.”

“Call it square if you like,” she says, “but I'd like to see ‘good news’ broadcasts on every television station and ‘good news’ columns in every newspaper. I think people need to have a more balanced picture of their world. And, really, I think they deserve to have it, too.”

MAKE OLD FURNITURE LOOK EVEN OLDER

By MR. FIX

The big thing in refinishing old or unfinished furniture in recent years is a process known as antiquing. The process has been known and used for years and years but recently paint companies have put together antiquing kits that contain everything you need for the job plus simple instructions.

The kit has introduced people to a means of refinishing that is easier than any other. You don't have to apply the finish smoothly. It isn't necessary, usually, to remove the old finish. And about it.

Then, before the glaze dries, wipe off most of it. As you work at it you will notice that various methods achieve certain results. You're the boss. There is no wrong way to do it.

Remember to cover the entire surface with glaze. Wiping over a dry spot will smear it. Wipe hard on high spots since if this were a real antique those would be the spots with most wear. If you wipe across the grain some of the glaze will remain in the grain. Use a stiff brush or steel wool and you will get the effect of the results are different and interesting enough that the pieces are at home almost anywhere.

The process, however, is not for rare and fine pieces of furniture. If these need refinishing, they should be done by the traditional methods and if the pieces are really valuable, then they should be handled by experts.

But the antiquing we are talking about is for non-experts dealing with very ordinary furniture that you would like to give a new lease on life.

A typical kit will contain a can of semigloss enamel, the antiquing liquid (a glaze), a couple of brushes (one for painting and the other for glazing), sandpaper, cheese-cloth and steel wool.

Quite simply, what you do is to apply the base coat of enamel first. Spray it on or paint it on and do it right over the old finish.

When that is dry apply the glaze. This is a mixture of pigment and varnish and you just spread it on without worrying about being neat wood grain. Use a sponge and the effect is stippled. Take the glaze off slowly. It's easier to take more off than to put some of it back.

Don't be worried about the brightness of the base coat. The glaze will tone it down and the more glaze you leave on the more subdued the result.

While it is true that surface preparation is not really necessary you will always do better with a clean surface. If the old finish is glossy a light sanding will provide tooth for the new base coat.

The distance to Dallas has

This could well have been the first one built near Hope and the men in the picture are showing it off proudly.

It May Be Up to Mike

By TOM TIEDE

NEA Staff Correspondent

CAPE KENNEDY—(NEA)—Popular history will undoubtedly remember astronaut Neil Armstrong as the first man on the moon. It will probably also remember astronaut Edwin Aldrin as the second.

But what about astronaut Mike Collins?

Very likely, he will be forgotten.

Collins is to be the third man aboard the upcoming Apollo 11 mission, earth's first manned moon landing. Unlike Armstrong and Aldrin, however, he will probably not get closer than several miles to the lunar crust.

Collins will “stay behind,” orbiting the moon in the Command Module while his partners, in the lunar vehicle, descend to make history.

His job, while it can't be described as thankless, is obviously less significant.

The job, however, will be complex, fatiguing and enormously critical.

Beginning shortly before 2 p.m. (EDT, earth time), Sunday, July 20, Mike Collins will become the only man in the universe who will be able to do anything if the moon landing party gets into trouble. And if the trouble is too severe, Mike Collins may become the only man to survive the frightfully dangerous trip.

Collins, 39, a former Air Force test pilot, will actually inherit his one-man responsibilities sometime on the morning of July 20. At that hour, his mates will disengage from their work in the Command Module, crawl into the Lunar Module and prepare to break away for descent.

From here on, Collins will, in effect, do the work of three people. The Command Module, designed to be operated by a trio, will be his alone. He becomes pilot, navigator and backup man—238,000 miles out in space.

Flight officials don't deny the difficulty of his task.

Says one authority: “He'll be flying alone for over 24 hours. Some dozen revolutions around the moon. And every time he goes on the other side of the moon, he'll lose all contact with earth and the other astronauts. All alone. Cut completely off. That's a hell of an onus, when you think about it.”

Actually, when you really think about it, flying the ship alone will be just routine for Collins. And officials say he may possibly have immensely more critical duties to perform, from 70 miles over the moon.

Once the Lunar Module breaks away from the Command Module, Collins becomes, in case of trouble, the only hope for his descending teammates.

The Lunar Module, dropping precariously down at one mile a second, could develop difficulties.

If it happens, Collins would have to drop his own vehicle down, as low as 50,000 feet, to get within rendezvous distance.

No trouble is expected. In previous and very exhaustive moon flights, all systems have clicked. However, Collins remains prepared.

In fact, the only thing that Mike Collins (or anybody else) is not prepared for in the upcoming moon mission is the possibility of ultimate disaster. The astronaut can presumably rescue his partners at any time during their lunar descent. But once they land, they're out of all reach.

“If the ship balks on the moon,” says a space official, “Armstrong and Aldrin would not be able to return to earth.”

Nobody, of course, expects tragedy for Apollo 11. More than $22 billion has been spent in the past decade to

Fine Print Clause Is NAACP Target

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fine-print clauses in installment contracts and loan agreements are the targets of a broad, three-pronged legal campaign being mounted by the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Lawyers for the fund are claiming in a flurry of lawsuits this summer these clauses unfairly deprive consumers of their right to defense themselves against creditors.

The civil rights organization is aiming at three kinds of contract clauses:

1. Those in which consumers who fall to meet installment payments give up their right to defend themselves against suits by finance companies. This arrangement is permitted in all states except California, Maryland, Massachusetts, Vermont and Washington.

2. Those in which consumers give up their right even to be notified they are being sued by the companies or by the merchants themselves. This is permitted in Colorado, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

3. Those in which consumers who default on loan or purchase payments assign future wages to their creditors. This is permitted in most states.

Philip Schrag, a fund lawyer, told in a telephone interview of the over-all consumers campaign:

“Poor consumers, both black and white, are routinely cheated and abused by merchants and creditors. We are using every available legal device to protect these buyers and borrowers because such merchants contribute significantly to keeping poor people poor. “Civil rights are meaningless unless they are accompanied by economic rights.”

The fund is relying heavily on the Supreme Court's 7-1 decision last month invalidating Wisconsin's garnishment law—one of seven cases argued successfully before the court by fund attorneys last term.

The court ruled a worker is entitled to a hearing before his salary can be frozen to satisfy a creditor's demands.

This decision undercut garnishment laws in 16 other states and voided a quarter-million outstanding garnishments.

Moreover, it seems to have established the principle that property cannot be taken from a person in a court proceeding unless he has a chance to defend himself.

plays, and at fair grounds and shopping centers.

“It takes some time to really know how people are responding to a specific issue like the anti-ballistic missile,” said Proxmire, an ABM opponent.

“That's because a lot of the things you get asked about are topical—the thing that was in the evening papers yesterday.”

“It adds up to a whole lot.” And of course they don't like it.”

Dismounting from a horse named Rudy after a Friday morning parade through Terre Haute, his district's largest city, Myers, was given a theme he heard over and over again throughout his long day of event hopping.

“Most people feel the war has gone on too long, but we do not feel it is in the American tradition to agree to dishonorable peace,” he was told.

The next morning, Saturday, in West Allis, an industrial suburb of Milwaukee, Proxmire also heard a lot about Vietnam.

Many of those who spoke up urged speedy withdrawal.

“I fought in World War II,” a 45-year-old Hales Corners, Wis., engineer told Proxmire. “I had no question but what that was the thing to do.

“But I wouldn't serve in Vietnam and, if it comes to that, I don't think my 20-year old son will either. If he made his own decision to resist the draft I'd support him in any way I could.”

In Indiana, driving from the Terre Haute parade to one in Bloomington, Myers switched on a news cast and heard the number of Indiana soldiers killed in Vietnam stands at 982.

“People here are mad about taxes and mad about Vietnam,” Myers was told by a service station attendant when he stopped for gas on a rural road.

“The taxes are so high they're out of sight, the attendant said. “And inflation is getting so bad you can't buy anything with what little money you have left over.”

“People around here think we should either stop fighting in Vietnam and get out,” he said, “or start fighting to win and finish the thing.”

ness plant and equipment modernization, reduction or elimination of federal income taxes for 13 million low-income families, and extension of present auto and telephone excise tax rates which otherwise would drop Jan. 1.

How far the Senate decides to go on additional tax reform will determine how long it takes to finish up work on the bill.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, also chairman of the policy committee, explained that many of his colleagues were unwilling to vote to continue the surtax unless assured that provisions to close tax loopholes would be tied to the same legislation.

On the other hand, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, a Finance member, advocates a minimum of reform provisions in the surtax bill.

Supporting the administration contention that the surcharge must be extended at once, Dirksen has urged that the Senate pass the bill by the end of this month. But Mansfield has suggested that September is a more likely time.

Farm Subsidy Limit Fight Not Over Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators have voted down a proposed $20,000 ceiling on government payments to farmers for not planting crops, but House supporters of the limit say the fight is not over.

The Senate, before passing a $7.6 billion Agriculture Department appropriations bill Monday, eliminated a House-originated amendment which would impose a $20,000 limit on the subsidies. The vote was 53-34 in favor of rejecting the ceiling, and the bill was passed 88-2.

A conference committee will iron out differences between the Senate and House versions of the appropriations measure.

Republican Reps. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts and Paul Findley of Illinois, who pushed successfully for the ceiling in the House, said they would not give up on the limit.

Conte, calling the Senate action "a tragic mistake," said he would try to get the ceiling reinstated in conference or would seek House floor action insisting on the $20,000 limitation.

The ceiling was opposed by the administration.

Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois argued against limiting payments, while John J. Williams of Delaware fought for the ceiling he said would save the government $35 million annually.

Citing instances of five farms each getting more than $1 million not to produce crops, Williams commented: "I don't know how any member of the Senate can justify paying $1 million to so-called farmers not to farm."

Dirksen noted that the subsidy was started to eliminate farm surpluses.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., floor manager of the bill, contended the ceiling could create chaos in farming. And Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said that a ceiling could hurt small farmers by causing a flood of produce on the market.

Not taking part in the debate but voting against the proposed ceiling was Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland who has received subsidies for keeping some of his Mississippi land out of production. Records from fiscal 1967 showed he and his family received $211,364 in such subsidies.

The $7.6 billion bill approved by the Senate is about $675 million above the President's budget requests, but $548 million under last year's appropriation. About half the funds are for payments to farmers and just under $2 billion is for school lunches, commodity distribution and other programs to feed the poor.

Pine Bluff Man Pleads Innocent of Charges

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — John Pointer Jr., former Pine Bluff city collector charged with embezzlement, pleaded innocent as his trial opened Monday in Jefferson County Circuit Court. Pointer is charged with taking $32,473 in city funds over a period from Jan. 1, 1966, to May 10, 1968. He was relieved of his duties in May 1968 and indicted the following month.

Among the first witnesses to be called was Mayor Austin Franks.

A jury of 10 men and two women was seated Monday to hear the trial.

Edwin Wallerman, a certified public accountant, testified that Pointer "seemed very nervous" when Wallerman asked about missing ledger sheets.

Wallerman testified that discrepancies in the collection of occupation taxes in 1966 and 1967 led to the special audit that showed that funds were missing.

The CPA said that in 1965 more than $135,000 in occupation taxes was collected, but that in 1966, after the City Council increased the tax, $125,000 was collected.

Despite another increase in the tax, Wallerman said, the collection showed only a $3,000 increase in 1967.

No Clues to Future of Interest Rates

By TOM STEWART

WASHINGTON (AP) — A confrontation between the nation's top bankers and the government's major economic decisionmakers has provided no clues to the future course of interest rates, currently spiraling upward at a record pace.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, who was host at the meeting of executives of 24 of the nation's largest banks Monday, said the controversy over the banks' recent raising of the "prime rate" to a record high didn't even figure in the discussion.

The prime rate is what the banks charge their biggest and best business customers for loans. When it rises, virtually all other rates are adjusted upwards accordingly.

Major New York banks began marking the prime rate up from 7 1/2 per cent to 8 1/2 percent June 9, setting off similar increases across the country. Later, there have been hints from the banking community another increase may be on the way.

Besides Kennedy, government figures at the meeting included Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin, Budget Bureau Director Robert Mayo, Herbert Stein, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and Richard McLaren, assistant attorney general in charge of antitrust matters.

Only Martin remained behind with Kennedy for the press briefing that followed the closed-door session and he left the talking almost entirely up to the Treasury chief.

Kennedy insisted the session "was not called to roll back the prime rate."

Thus, he said, no attempt was made to persuade the bankers

Flip Wilson Makes Some $500,000 a Year, Still Lives in Poverty Area

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "My accountant estimated my income last year would be $300,000 said Flip Wilson, 'but I actually earned $500,000.'

"Now things are looking up. If I can have two more years like that, I'm going to move out of the poverty area."

The 34-year-old Negro performer, newest top star on the comedy scene, has spent most of his life in the poverty area. His present success is a tribute to a self-determination that would be a credit to any Haratio Alger hero.

Inflation Pinch Has Left Most Americans Worse Off Than Ever

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Many Americans who have felt the pinch of inflation say they think the steady rise in prices has left them worse off now than a few years ago.

Less than 10 per cent of more than 400 people across the nation who were questioned in a special inquiry by Associated Press bureaus said they had not been directly affected by inflation.

An engineer in Michigan doubted he could buy now the house he bought 2 1/2 years ago. A Louisville man had to cut back his savings program. A San Francisco secretary said higher taxes swallowed up her latest pay increase, but she's made some gains in recent years.

A South Dakota shoe salesman, who says he's having difficulty keeping up with price rises, added that nevertheless he's better off than he was a few years ago.

A gasoline station attendant in Los Angeles said he thinks big business has a lot to do with inflation. A repairman in Connecticut said inflation starts with the unions. A Mississippi businessman thought government should control both larger corporations and unions.

An Indiana farmer blamed government spending for inflation. A book store owner in Michigan suggested stopping the war and getting out of Vietnam to solve tax problems. An Atlanta housewife opposed relief payments, saying more people should be encouraged to work.

The almost unanimous response to queries about inflation and its effect was that it is a problem of national concern.

"Like everyone else I have a tough time keeping up with rising prices," said Marvin Hardy, 40, of Sioux Falls, S.D., a shoe salesman. Hardy, who earns nearly $9,000 a year, said despite inflation he was better off than he was two or three years ago.

Holiday Death Toll of 611 a New Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A record death toll for a three-day Fourth of July holiday period was set by motorists last weekend when 611 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

The total was within the National Safety Council's prediction of between 550 and 650 traffic fatalities during the period which began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

But it surpassed the mark of 576 set in 1966 for a period of like duration. The record for any Independence Day observance was in 1967 when 732 persons died in traffic during that four-day holiday.

For comparison, there were 435 traffic deaths counted by The Associated Press during a nonholiday three-day weekend June 19 through June 22.

Small Collision Occurs on 67

A small collision occurred on West 3rd yesterday around 5:45 p.m. in front of the Cigo Service Station.

Kathy Sullivan of Nashville stopped in the line of traffic and Priscilla Leslie of Fulton bumped into her. The latter said that her foot slipped off the clutch.

Minor damage resulted. Long investigated.

Extension of Surtax Pleaded

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy pleaded today for immediate Senate action to extend the income tax surcharge, declaring a delay would throw doubt on "the determination of government to bring an orderly halt to inflation."

But Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., replied his Senate Finance Committee would open the extension bill to broad questions of tax reform and thus take weeks and possibly months to act on it.

The conflicting viewpoints were voiced as the committee opened its public hearings on the bill passed by the House by a slim 210-205 vote.

Kennedy, the first witness, said, "Failure to extend the surcharge would amount to a cut in taxes at a time of accelerating inflation. The consequences of failing to pass this legislation are unthinkable."

Kennedy urged the panel to postpone reform legislation, pending another bill being considered by the House Ways and Means Committee.

But Long announced in opening the hearing that tax reform would be considered as a major part of the surtax bill and "that our tax reform hearings are going to be just as broad and comprehensive as the senators want them to be."

He said the committee would open public hearings July 21 on reform amendments.

Kennedy said during House hearings on the bill that the surtax extension should be hurried through as an anti-inflation measure, and that major tax reform should be taken up later by Congress in a separate bill.

The Finance Committee has not decided how it will attack the touchy question of tax reform.

But the powerful Senate Democratic Policy Committee has voted unanimously to use the surtax bill as a vehicle for reform amendments.

The House bill, which would extend the 10 per cent income surtax the rest of this year and then lower it to 5 per cent for the first six months of 1970, has three other items included. These are repeal of the 7 per cent investment credit for busi-

Light Turnout Expected on Drink Vote

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A light to moderate voter turnout was expected today when Texarkana residents decided on legalizing the public sale of mixed drinks in hotels, motels and restaurants.

Texarkana has 9,000 eligible voters, but the city had printed only 4,000 ballots.

Proponents of legalizing the sale of cocktails have agreed to pay half the cost of the election because they wanted the issue to be voted on separately rather than be on the ballot with another issue.

Two counties and two cities have approved the sale of mixed drinks under the law approved by the 1969 legislature. Three cities have rejected the sale.

Director of State Police Is Injured

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police Director Ralph Scott was at work Monday with a fractured arm and lacerations on his leg and side.

Scott explained that he was riding his wife's bicycle in the driveway of State Police headquarters in Little Rock on the Fourth of July in order to get some exercise and take off some weight.

"I knew it had lousy brakes, but I got to going faster than I had anticipated and failed to negotiate a turn. I went flying over the handle bars."

Congressmen Find All Fighting Lull as First U.S. Troops Leave

By LAWRENCE L. KNUITSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of Congress, home to test the flow of voter opinion, found an electorate preoccupied with two hopes—a fast end to the Vietnam war and a quick reduction in taxes.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., found no similar voter concentration on the debate over the advisability of deploying President Nixon's proposed antiballistic missile system.

The message they did hear can be summed up by two questions both men were most often asked:

"What are you going to do about taxes and spending?" and "When are we going to settle the war?"

Myers, 42, elected last November to his second House term, and Proxmire, 53, who is increasingly laying claim to the title of prime Senate advocate of a tight rein on defense spending, heard the questions at Independence Day parades, fish fries, horse shows, fireworks displays.

Wants More Under Jobless Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to bring 4.8 million more workers under unemployment insurance and to extend the period of benefits during times of high unemployment.

"Over 57 million workers are protected by unemployment insurance," the President said in a message to the Senate and House. "However, almost 17 million are not covered. More than half of these are employees of state and local governments."

Nixon said the 4.8 million workers he proposes to include in the system are in real need of protection, since many of them have low wages, little job security and no prospect of severance pay if they were to be laid off.

He broke the 4.8 million figure down this way:

—1.6 million workers in firms with less than four employees.

—400,000 on large farms employing four or more workers in each of 20 weeks.

—200,000 engaged in agricultural processing.

—1.8 million working for non-profit organizations.

—600,000 employees of state hos-

No Relief From Heat in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No general rains or relief from the hot and humid weather is in sight for Arkansas, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today.

Temperatures are expected to continue in the mid to high 90s with some 100-degree readings through Wednesday.

High temperature Monday was 103 at El Dorado. Arkansas continues to be influenced by a high pressure ridge that extends westward from the Atlantic over the southern tier of states and the Gulf of Mexico.

The forecast calls for thunder showers Wednesday. Lows tonight are expected to be in the 70s and low 80s.

Overnight lows included 73 at Harrison, 74 at Fayetteville, 76 at Fort Smith and Pine Bluff, 78 at Jonesboro, Little Rock, Memphis and Texarkana, and 80 at El Dorado.

No rainfall was reported during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Car Hits AND Truck in Rear

A minor accident occurred yesterday around 10:27 a.m. on East 3rd in front of the Plaza Restaurant.

A car driven by Peter Kotslir of Chicago struck an Arkansas Highway Department truck driven by Charles Alkins in the rear as it was turning off into the Plaza parking lot. No charges were filed. Neal and Shirley investigated.
